This performance features oral history narratives from southern Illinois residents exploring stories and experiences about "sundown towns" that have historically banned African Americans after dark.

“The most important show we’ve done in a long time.”
- Dr. Craig Gingrich-Philbrook

“Until we solve the problem of sundown neighborhoods and towns we do not have a chance of solving America’s race problem.”
- James W. Loewen

Sundown in Southern Illinois
Directed by: Elena Esquibel
with Andrea Baldwin

October 28 - 30th 2010
The Marion Kleinau Theatre
2nd Floor Communications Building
$7 General Admission  $5 Students
For Reservations Call: 618-453-5618
Find us on Facebook: Sundown in Southern Illinois